Experiential learning – or Learning by Doing

Their philosophy is that learning by doing is the best way to learn. Northgate games, activities and business simulations require delegate participation, the vital ingredient for effective learning. As the famous philosopher, Confucius, said:

I hear and I forget, I see and I remember, I do and I understand.

This highly regarded learning method has many advantages because it:

Engages and motivates participants, allows for learning from each other (peer teaching), offers a chance for feedback and reflection, encourages the development of workplace skills, makes the learning memorable – and fun!

Their aim is to make it easy for you to put experiential learning into your training programmes to ensure they are enjoyable, memorable and effective.
