

Forio Simulations

Forio Content are developed by experts, including faculty at Harvard, MIT, Wharton & other premier business schools.

Simulations are highly effective teaching tools that have been a staple of training for years in industries like aviation and health care. When applied in business, simulations allow learners to simultaneously:

Explore required material through interactive learning

Work in team-based competitive or collaborative scenarios

Pick up additional, crucial 'soft' skills

Participate in a network for continued learning

They've collaborated to design and deliver engaging, web-based, interactive learning solutions for a wide range of industries. They've also helped training specialists and consultants enhance the curriculum they deliver to clients.

There are several simulations as :

- Leadership and teamwork.
- Change Management.
- Operations Management.
- Strategic Innovation.
- Marketing: Managing Segments and Customers.
- Project Management Simulation.